Local Mounts Compete With $25,000 'Name' Horses

ENID BALDWIN STARS AT HORSE SHOW

Competing against the cream of Alberta's horses at the two-day fall show, held August 29-30 at the "Alberta Light Horse Association," at Calgary, Miss Enid Baldwin, Strathmore's 19-year-old horse, began stepping out in senior class for her first time, made a truly splendid showing.

"Flicka Flame," Miss Baldwin's own jumper made a clear performance in a class for Maiden jumpers but was cut down to fifth place owing to the fact that she took the jump a little too fast.

In the $250.00 Stake Race, "Flicka Flame" ridden by Stan Waters of Bragg Creek took 3rd in the first heat run on Friday night and finished in 10th place in the finals on Saturday night. A truly good showing considering the stiff competition in this class.

Miss Baldwin also obtained very creditable points with "Lady Lipstick" from the Mercer Bros. stable in classes for Road-Hack and Classy Dressage Horse. This being "Lady Lipstick's" first appearance in the show ring. Even better results can be expected from this good mare in the future.

On Saturday evening Miss Baldwin also made a splendid showing with the two mounts, "Flicka Flame" being one of the few to jump a clear performance over all jumps in class for Novice Hunters. This plucky little jumper was cut out of the prize money however, when judged on confirmation.

Miss Baldwin on "Lady Lipstick" paired with Mr. Neil Harvey on "Gard" in the class for Riding Pair, again made a very creditable showing, being among the top performers.

The great thrill of the entire show of the well known horses in this event had a score of as many as from 9 to 23 faults registered against them. In the eyes of the Strathmore people, it came Saturday night, when Miss Baldwin rode "Flicka Flame," over the jumps in competition with such great jumpers as "Playboy" and "Huntsman" (of Toronto local fame) and thirty-one others of the West's finest jumpers.

"Flicka Flame" took the hurdles and broad jump in breath-taking style for a score of only 5 faults. However turning the wrong way cost her another point making the total of 6 faults which just cut her out of prize money in this event by 1/2 fault.

Great credit is certainly due to Miss Baldwin and the two horses for the excellent show, the quality and Strathmore can well be proud of them.

NEW BOND ISSUE

Ottawa, September 2nd, 1947. The decision to issue second series of Canada Savings Bonds, forecast some time ago, has been confirmed by the Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of Finance.

The new issue goes on sale on October 1st. The Minister of Finance stated that the second series of Canada Savings Bonds will be dated November 1st, 1947, and will bear interest at the rate of 2 1/2% each year for ten years. They may be redeemed at any time at par value in Canada for full face value plus interest and will be registered in the owner's name affording protection against loss. Not more than $1,000 of this series may be registered in any one name.

Cluny Honors Mrs. D. Clark

On Sunday evening August 30, the Cluny Women's Institute held a bridge party in the Club Room of the Community Hall as a parting gesture to our oldest Institute member, Mrs. Duncan Clark.

Mrs. Clark, many times our Constituency Convenor, is leaving Cluny to reside in Calgary. She has been our outstanding member and after over thirty years of faithful service we are very sorry indeed to lose her. She will be hard to replace. She is an able speaker, and will be remembered by all in the Gleichen Constituency as the one who could make our conferences a happy and successful day to look back upon.

After bridge, a delicious lunch was served and Mrs. Clark was presented with a very pretty suit ornament as a token of remembrance from the Cluny W.I.

Our president, Mrs. Somerville, commented on the fact that this August was the 50th anniversary of the W.I. in Canada, and very fittingly presented Mrs. Elsie Clark with a 50th anniversary pin, as well as prizes for highest honors in bridge. The low went to Mrs. Beattie. The high in which went to Mrs. I. Goldsmith and the low by Mrs. B. Betts.

The next regular meeting of the Cluny W. I. will be held in the Club Room on September 4.

Prices of bacon and beef under consideration in the contracts would assure a stable price to the producer until January 1, 1948.

Egg contracts with the United Kingdom call for delivery of 83 million dozens yearly during the period February 1, 1947 to January 31, 1948. Delivery of this volume of eggs practically assures a market for surplus eggs during that period.

In addition Canada has agreed to supply the United Kingdom with 125 million pounds of cheese and 600,000 cases of evaporated milk yearly between April 31, 1946 and March 31, 1948. There are also agreements covering shipment of fresh and canned meats to the United Kingdom until the end of 1947.

Curriers Going Ahead

A temporary setback on Wednesday when the contractor turned down the moving of the curling club for a short time, but by Thursday morning the problem seemed to have been ironed out.

Taylor, formerly in charge of moving, informed the moving committee that the job appeared too big for his crew and equipment, and that he would have to turn down the order. Members of the committee felt somewhat dismayed over this setback so late the season.

Prompt action, however, and a generous offer on the part of Mr. Jim Harwood to postpone some of his own work, resulted in the organization of a crew consisting of Messrs. B. Naylor, Jim Swanson and Mark Lounsbury, who are preparing to go ahead, with the volunteer assistance. It is expected that some of the Club's Present plans are to start building forms and pouring concrete on Friday, and further work will depend on the completion of this task.

The girls, suffering from shock and bruises spent some time in St. Joseph's hospital in Victoria.

Mr. Cole suffered serious head injuries and at last report had not regained consciousness.

AUTO INDUSTRY FOR STRATHMORE

Rumours have been going around for the past few days about the possible establishment in Strathmore of a new automotive industry, and many residents have been heard discussing the possibilities.

Any developments would, naturally, be on a small scale to start with, since the product itself is on a small scale.

Final tests on the pilot model were completed last Saturday afternoon on a Strathmore sidewalk, when Jimmy Bledon and Ronnie Crowther piloted their single cylinder, single passenger, single speed gas machine at the daring speed of six miles an hour. Many Strathmore residents were on hand to watch the birth of this exciting new contender in the automotive field.

Produced entirely through the initiative of these two lads, together with a great deal of know-how from Jim's older brother, the "car" is covered by a gas type washing machine engine, is supported by springs, is driven through a clutch engaging with planetary gears. Its straight line steering, we are informed, does away with the necessity for camber, castor, toe-in and all the other bothersome features of more expensive models.

Tests as yet have not been sufficiently extensive to determine the mileage developed, and no estimate of speed is available. No opinion has been given as to whether it will need a license to drive in town, though one Boy Valley councillor stoutly maintains he will not allow it on municipally highways without plates.

AUTUMN LEAVES

enrich the soil, barnyard manure becomes essential. Important as it is, chemical fertilizer alone cannot replace lost organic matter in the soil. That is not its function.

Humus, decomposed organic matter is a dark brown crumbly material formed by the action of micro-organisms upon plant and animal residues. It is highly complex in composition. In fact, it defies chemical analysis since it varies constantly as a result of continual processes of decomposition and of the materials involved in it.

But chemists know that it is definitely important to the soil. A soil containing plenty of humus is fertile and rich—a storehouse of plant nutrients. It provides better aeration, so that plant roots can grow easily through loose crumbly soil. It helps to hold moisture and to absorb great amounts of heat, and prevent rapid changes in acidity or alkalinity.

In the natural state, humus is manufactured constantly by the elements of decay and growth. But a thick mat of leaves over the lawn smother out the grass, so that in order to achieve the greatest benefit from the fallen leaves, they must be gathered and composted.

Toronto, Ontario, collects more than 8,000 truckloads of leaves from its streets each autumn. Most of these are dumped in the ravines. They don't stay there long. As fast as they are carted there in the autumn, city gardeners and commercial nurserymen hasten to remove them in the spring in half rotted condition. They prize the leafmould, if the leaf-burning citizen does not.

Variety in the raw materials improves the quality of the compost. All garden stalks and lawn cuttings can be thrown in. Non-woody vegetable refuse such as withered leaves and flowers, potato tops, bean and pea vines, cabbage leaves and stalks are converted into humus in this way. Sand, fine cinders or sod improve the texture of the pile.

The leaves should be piled into a thick mat and thoroughly wetted down by hose. It is very difficult to moisten a large pile of leaves, so that the compost should be wetted down as it is built. Fertilizer is added in due proportion to the size of each layer of leaves. Another layer of leaves, more water and more fertilizer, and so on until the flat compact pile is as high as desired. A layer of soil two to three inches thick or a topping of sods will check evaporation of moisture, absorb ammonia and other gases formed during fermentation, and help compact the mass.

During the fermentation period, the pile shrinks noticeably as the diverse ingredients lose individuality, and become one in texture. Gardeners usually fork over the pile from time to time while the warm weather lasts. The aeration and heat hasten the nitrification action. In the spring, the compost is dark and crumbly and ready for use.

The fall of leaf is so generous, and so simple a means of returning organic matter to the earth that it is pathetic to see the wasteful destruction each year. If the odour of burning leaves were to vanish from our autumn air, the gain in conservation would far more than compensate for nostalgic sentimentality. To those who think in terms of conservation, there is little charm in the autumnal burnt offerings.

Test For Drivers License?

Much has been said recently over the advisability of tightening the regulations covering the issuance of driver's licenses. Suggestions have been made that a driving test be made necessary, some have gone so far as to suggest a yearly driving test. Others have suggested clamping down harder on convicted offenders. Again we've heard suggestions of testing the culprits.

That something needs to be done will hardly be contested by any motorist on the road.

But according to a poll conducted by the Financial Post, and covered in some detail in the A.M.A.'s Motor-dom, opinions differ widely on the best test.

Most authorities agree that the yearly test is not the answer. It is too cumbersome, too open to variations of stiffness, and provides no safeguard against the occasional lapse which is the cause of so many accidents. Impatience and inattention make up a large part of these momentary lapses and no test will eliminate them.

Far better, it seems to us, would be to initiate an initial driving test when the first license is being applied for, and a periodic check of the functioning of the vehicles. If the operative parts of a vehicle are in poor shape, there is danger ahead.

Continuous campaigns for driving safety must also be waged to offset the indifference and the absent-mindedness and the liquor problem.

The old adage was never truer than now: "You are as safe as your reflexes."

The sum of $1,352, 325 was paid out in death claims by life insurance companies in Canada in the Province of Alberta during the first six months

The new school year has started, with probably the largest enrolment ever. A large number of the students, well over a hundred, are country students, coming in by bus.

It would seem an ideal time, now at the first of the year, and while the Wheatland Board is still working on the new school room, to make some provision for more adequate lunch accommodation for these country students. They are away from home for the entire day, and particularly in the winter time, they need the best meal they can get at noon.

It may be that the Home and School Association could make this a project; it may be that the School Board

Elsewhere in this issue is an article reprinted from the CIL Oval, dealing with the annual waste of plant material.

It is one which we found extremely interesting. Merely because our country is blessed with a super abundance of rich, productive soil is no excuse for the wanton waste it has been subjected to, and it is no assurance that the soil can long continue to maintain its productivity.

The dustbowl of a few years ago proved that Nature will not long tolerate the vicious upsetting of the scheme of things, which has become a habit.

Why These Embargoes

With our supply of American dollars vanishing this is no time for embargoes on agricultural products to the United States, argues The Financial Post.

"We have what amounts to a virtual embargo on all meat livestock shipments to the United States. We have almost as stringent restrictions on the export southward of most of a lot of other farm and food products, which we could spare and which Americans would be glad to buy in large quantities. These restrictions grew up during the war years.

Removal of export restrictions, might temporarily disrupt some of our export to Great Britain and it would most certainly upset some domestic retail prices. But many of these, in the meat line especially, are fictitious anyway, only possible through a complicated system of feed subsidies, bonuses and other government help. Eventually as taxpayers, we foot the bill.

In the meantime these artificially low prices are encouraging a lot of us to eat up a surplus we used to sell to the United States and, judged by actual current shipments, they are not resulting in any more food getting to Great Britain.

"A more realistic price and export policy would stimulate greater production and after all that is what counts most in the world today."

How Long Is Fashion?

We're enjoying quite a bit of reading about the fun various groups are having down south of the Border over how long a women's skirt should be. It's not by any means a localized effort. . . groups are springing up all over, it seems, and they're just as much male as female.

What we like about the idea is that there is obviously still a section who is not sure about the dictates of a vague "they" who say what length skirts shall be, whether hips shall be padded, and so on down . . . or up . . . the list.

Main point of the effort seems to be the contention that the outfit for a new wardrobe hits too hard in these days, but it's enervating, too, to find a few odd souls who say simply they don't like long skirts.

We admire efforts like this, not because they're flouting the dictates of so-called style authorities (who ever gave them any authority anyway?) but because they're sufficiently interested to go to bat for their point. We hope they make a base hit.

My boy, I would advise you to deliver your grain to Alberta Pool elevators and to stay with the Pool. It has been a big help to us Alberta farmers; it is our business and it is up to us to make it successful.

I believe in co-operation and I think we farmers should stand shoulder to shoulder to show the world that we can operate our business in the way we want it done.

Our Alberta Wheat Pool operates for the people on the land and not for the investor or speculator. It has cut to the bone the cost of grain handling. It has corrected abuses and is providing a fine trustworthy service.

The Pool put a patronage dividend policy into effect, compelling other grain companies to do likewise. They never would have done so but for the Pool.

Original Pool members put up over $8 millions in cash to build the Alberta Wheat Pool. You can increase your ownership in the Pool merely by delivering your grain. You will get patronage dividends in cash and reserves. Ownership lies in the reserves.

The aim is to keep Alberta Pool Elevators in the hands of operating farmers. Stay with the Pool and you will always be glad you did so.

SCOUTS PROVIDE INFORMATION

Because there was no tourist bureau to provide information for American tourists entering Canada by way of the Roosevelt Bridge at Cornwall, Out Scouts of the Trinity Boy Scout Troop, pitched a tent at the approaches to the bridge, armed themselves with a good supply of tourist literature and aided hundreds of tourists as they entered Canada. The resourcefulness of the Scouts was highly commented by the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder in an editorial.

it gets SMACKED 1000 times a minute!

EVEN at normal cruising speed, the pistons of your car take a cruel licking. With each explosion one of them gets smacked down with pile-driver force—pressure runs more than a ton and a half. Heat builds up to 600° and higher. And the pistons take this hours on end—one thousand smacks and more every minute.

Aluminum pistons are made to stand this sort of punishment, and more. That's why they are used in airplane engines, too.

Another reason is their lightness, which in turn means power economy. Here's why: You can push a modern, lightweight aluminum vacuum cleaner back and forth with almost no effort. (An engineer would explain it in terms of low inertia.) And inertia is important in a piston, which must reverse its direction every split second. The less force needed to stop it and head it the other way is that much power saved to drive plane or motor car with that much greater pep and speed.

FARMING NEWSFALL CULTIVATION OF STUBBLE

The value of early fall cultivation of stubble is appreciated by many farmers and it is likely that more stubble than ever will be cultivated this fall. If such a practice is contemplated it is important to cultivate as soon as possible after harvesting the crop. At this time weeds are small and can be killed before they have removed valuable moisture from the soil. The germination of weed seeds is also facilitated. By breaking up the soil surface fall rains can penetrate more easily. The sooner rain soaks into the soil below the 4 inch surface layer the better. Once moisture enters the sub-soil it is removed almost wholly by plant growth, very little being subject to loss by evaporation.

It should be remembered that stubble from this year's crop is expected to furnish protection against soil drifting for the ensuing eighteen months. Therefore extreme care is necessary to avoid undue deterioration of the stubble in performing the fall operation. Blade cultivators have proven to be most satisfactory for this work since the stubble is left in an upright position. The one-way disc can be used if a blade cultivator is not available. To avoid undue destruction of stubble numerous experiments show that the one-way disc does best work at 2½ miles per hour and at a depth of about 3 inches.

The effective storage of moisture in the soil is of extreme importance in areas of limited precipitation. However, it is in these same areas that the greatest need exists for soil drifting control. The careful farmer can usually attain both objectives.

In virtually every job, future developments must be constantly taken into account.

If you are working to a definite schedule, your main and perhaps only concern will be to keep up with it.

But if you have no such schedule to adhere to, don't fall into the error of thinking that it is not necessary to plan your work ahead. Every job can be done more efficiently by taking future requirements into account.

The advantages of doing so are many and important. To suggest a few:

It enables you to be better prepared for each task as you come to it. It closes up gaps between operations—eliminates delays.

It gives you a clear picture of your whole job and of production rates which may be needed for reference at any moment.

While these are broad generalizations, I am sure that an analysis of your particular job will reveal many other specific advantages of "organizing for tomorrow".

The necessity of planning for one's financial future is recognized by millions of Canadian owners of Life Insurance. For them and their families, security is an assured fact.
